Twenty table codes and the whole question set · cognitivecity.zyeta.asia · 2026-09-22

1 · The table codes

Each code opens that table's phone flow at cognitivecity.zyeta.asia/t/<n>. There is no login — the URL is the credential, so a card handed to the wrong table becomes that table. All 20 were requested against the live host and answered 200.

2 · What each table is asked

In order, exactly as the phone shows it. Every typed field is optional; only the choices are required.

SCREEN 1 · THE LENS

How do you imagine your future cognitive city?

Four cities. The pick is hidden analysis — it never appears by name on the wall.

The garden city

Nature first, buildings second. There is no boundary: the office IS the parkland, low and half-buried in it, and you are never indoors for long.

The vertical city

One enormous structure holds everything: work, homes, food, transit. You need never go outside.

The self-sufficient city

It makes its own energy, food and water, and shows you doing it. Dense and urban — solar skins, edible facades, pipes and pumps left on display.

Neo Retro

The more we walk into the future, the more we want the past. Deco geometry, brass, streamlined curves — a tomorrow built out of yesterday.

SCREEN 2

What is your city made of, and how does it feel?

- White and sleek
- Soft pastels
- Concrete and stone
- Earth and timber

Then: Which two materials would you want to touch? (optional)

SCREEN 3

How much of the outdoors is inside?

- None
- 20%
- 40%

Then: Why that much? (optional)

SCREEN 4

Where does deep work happen in a centaur organisation?

- The dome in the rainforest
- The zen garden café
- The immersion chamber
- The sealed mud hut
- Somewhere from our imagination — the table writes its own

Then: What did your table refuse to automate? (optional)

SCREEN 5

Where do people recharge?

- The igloo
- The water room
- The tea room
- Outdoors, on the grass

Then: What recharge is your table short of? (optional)
